Dear Mr. Davies,

Return of Five Pence Coins

The local banks have returned all the five pence coins deposited with them and as agreed, I am arranging a shipment to Llantrisant for the melting exercise. The details are as follows:-

349 boxes of unsorted coins	value	£174,277.50
16 boxes of sorted Jersey coins	value	£7,692.35

(These have black surround, 12 are strapped as received originally from the Royal Mint).

You will recall that the Treasury agreed to accept the findings of a sample sort of the mixed coin and that the Mint would reimburse the Treasury with:-

- i) the full face value for the percentage of UK coins returned
- ii) scrap value (less 15%) for the percentage of Jersey coins.

The quantity of sorted coins together with boxes of 'shot' coins formed part of the Treasury reserves at 31st December 1990. This quantity should be treated in isolation. On completion of the exercise, I would be pleased if you would provide a statement based on this format -

I refer to your letter dated 18 June 1990 concerning an order for 600,000 pieces of 2p coins dated 1990.

Dear Mr Chapman,

Old '5 Five Pence' Coins

In 1986 when half penny coins were withdrawn from circulation, the Royal Mint agreed to accept the coins, unsorted, from the local banks.

This was on the understanding that the Treasury would organise transport etc, and be responsible for the financial implications. The coins were subjected to a sample sort at Llantrisant - percentage of United Kingdom coins and States of Jersey coins - and ultimately I received funds in settlement.

The local banks have approached me to see whether it is possible to follow this procedures with the five pence coins, and prior to making a commitment, I would like your confirmation that it is acceptable on this occasion.

Yours sincerely,

F H LE MARQUAND

I have just heard that our Treasury will be making an announcement later today to the effect that the United Kingdom 1p and 2p coins will be issued in copper plated steel instead of bronze but that the diameters and weights will remain the same.

No date has been set for the introduction of the new coins but they will, of course, circulate side by side with the existing bronze coins in due course.

If you require any further information please do not hesitate to let me know.

Kind Regards

States of Jersey

Attn: Mr S Lusby

Further to our telephone conversation this afternoon, I confirm the following figures regarding the nickel brass being held by the Royal Mint on behalf of the States of Jersey. The initial receipt of 1.442 tonnes was sufficient to manufacture 151789 pieces of Jersey £1 coin.

Issues to date have been:

April 1989 - 10,000 pieces

September 1989 - 15,000 pieces

Total	25,000 pieces

The balance remaining therefore is sufficient to manufacture 126789 pieces of Jersey £1.

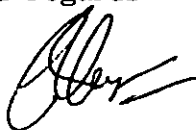

I further confirm that the April issue of 10,000 pieces was charged at £130 per 1000 and that the allowance had already been made in this price for the free metal.

I confirm also that the price originally charged for the second delivery in September of 15,000 pieces i.e. £140 per 1000 did not make an allowance for the free metal. This allowance was then made on the 17th November 1989 by paying a cheque to the States of Jersey for £282.45 being the overcharge at the rate of £18.83 per 1000.

I trust that this clears the matter of the £1 coin alloy.

A fax setting out further detail of the silver situation will follow shortly.

Kind regards

Geraint Chapman

ATTN: Mr S Lusby

Further to my fax dated 17 January 1990 the figures supplied therein are made up as follows.

In January 1988 we received from States of Jersey 5532.75 oz in the following form.

1983 - 7-Coin Sets	1621 pieces	3156.12 oz
1983 - St Helier f1	375 pieces	-- -129.61 oz
1981 - Royal Wedding f2	2670 pieces	2247.02 oz
Total held Free in Aid		5532.75 oz =====

States of Jersey requested that an unallocated account be opened for bullion from other coins surplus to requirement as follows.

1983 - 7-Coin Sets 2365 pieces 4605.84 oz = £38,881

This represents the value of the silver taken on commitment at the time of the manufacture of the 1983 sets. You will appreciate that silver has fallen in price considerably since then.

This amount has been reduced by the following issues:-

f1 Trinity	1965 pieces	(370.31 oz)	(£3126)
f1 St John	1000 pieces	(347.70 oz)	(£2935)
f1 St Mary	750 pieces	(260.78 oz)	(£2201)
f2	545 pieces	(458.82 oz)	(£3874)

Net balance as per fax dated 17 January 1990 3168.23 oz £26,745

I trust that the foregoing explanation is clear to you but please do not hesitate to contact me again should you require further explanation.

JERSEY £1 CIRCULATION COINS

Ref your note dated 8 November 1989, I too am rather concerned that Finance are not aware of the liability. What surprises me is that the physical arrival of returned coinage into the Royal Mint did not trigger some form of metal accounting. Mrs Carola Hawkins of Procurement Section was certainly aware of the situation. It appears that the returned Silver Wedding coins arrived with a large quantity of silver. Peter Thomas tells me that he has records of the silver but not the base metal but I confirm that I will monitor the credit due to Jersey for metal in respect of future issues of pound coins. Mrs Hawkins and Metal Accounts will hopefully do the same.

I know of no other similar circumstances but I should come across any in the future, I shall naturally advise you. ↗

Dear Mr Le Marquand,

5 PENCE COINS

Further to my letter dated 15 March, I am now enclosing pre-production samples of your smaller 5 pence coins. We trust that you are entirely satisfied with the reproduction of the coins at the smaller size, and that you could kindly confirm your approval. The coins have identical milling to that which we are using on the new UK 5 pence pieces.

On the assumption that the initial supply of 5 pence coins should be delivered to Jersey during next April, we should like to have your confirmed order by this December. We will let you have our quotation for the supply of one million pieces around that time.

Yours sincerely,

P J S Green

Dear Mr Le Marquand

5 PENCE AND 10 PENCE COINS

Thank you for your letter dated 13 March about the issue of new and smaller 5 pence coins in 1990. We have noted your decision to issue new 5 pence coins similar to those of the United Kingdom, and we are putting in hand the preparation of new master tools. As discussed, your new 5 pence coins will continue to feature the Machin portrait of the Queen, which appears on existing coins.

We have noted that you estimate an initial order for one million pieces of 5 pence coins dated 1990. If you could confirm the actual quantity by the end of the year, we will submit a full quotation. Hopefully by that time, metal prices may have retreated from their present high levels.

We will aim to let you have samples of your new 5 pence coins during the summer.

Yours sincerely

P J S Green

JERSEY-ORDER 988

An order has been received for the preparation of master tools for new 5 pence coins dated 1990. The customer has confirmed his intention to change to smaller 5 pence coins, in line with the United Kingdom decision, and the new specification will be as follows:

Alloy - Cupro-nickel
Weight - 3.25 grams
Diameter - 18mm
Shape - Round
Edge - Milled, as for UK 5 pence

Designs

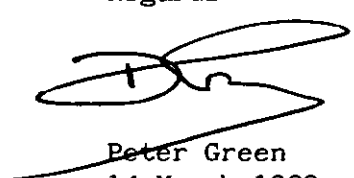

Designs will be identical to the existing larger 5 pence coins, that is the machine effigy on the obverse with the inscription "Queen Elizabeth the Second" and the date 1990. The reverse features a castle, with the inscription "Bailiwick of Jersey" and the denomination "five pence".

Will you please put in hand the preparation of master tools for the new coin. There is obviously no hurry, but we would like to be able to show the customer samples by the end of June.

Coin Order

The initial order will be in the region of 1 million pieces, for production in the first quarter of 1990.

Regards

Peter Green

Dear Mr Green

5 Pence and 10 Pence Coins

Thank you for your letter dated 7th March in which you kindly enclosed one set of the new coins. They will remain in my possession.

The States of Jersey will keep in step with the United Kingdom and issue the new dimension coins in 1990 and 1992. The design of the 5 pence coin will be retained and like the UK coin should have more pronounced edges. As yet no decision has been taken on the design of the 10 pence coin.

You may therefore take the appropriate action to produce the reduced design. I estimate the order to be for 1,000,000 pieces (£50,000) all dated 1990.

I trust that this is all the information you require at this stage.

Yours sincerely

Dear Mr le Marquand

CIRCULATION COINS

I am sending herewith our full quotation for the supply of your circulation coins dated 1989.

£1 Coin

I confirm that our price for the £1 coins allows for the metal which we are holding on your behalf. The metal content of 10,000 coins is 95 kilos, leaving a balance in stock for further orders of 1.347 tonnes.

Bronze

Last August you asked for comments on your bronze coins, which were costing more than face value to produce. I explained that the increase above face value of your penny and 2 pence coins was solely due to increases in the world price of copper. Whilst I was right in saying that no early weakening of copper prices was likely, we had not anticipated that price levels would continue to advance until we now have copper at record prices (currently averaging £1950 per tonne).

Nickel

The world price of nickel has also increased by some 130% (that is more than doubled) over the last year, which results in corresponding increases in the prices of your cupro-nickel coins.

We are currently holding our manufacturing charges steady. Regretably, our total prices bear little relationship to those previously charged, but it must be appreciated that the sole reason for this is the current higher prices of copper and nickel, over which we have no control.

I trust that these comments will be helpful.

Yours sincerely

P J S Green

Dear Mr Green,

I refer to your letter of the 1st instant in which you explain an error that occurred in the account submitted to me in May (Invoice No L4599 16/5/88). I accept your explanation and agree that the re-dating charge for the Trinity coin £625 be added to the account for that of St John later in the year.

All other other costs for the St John coin, the plaster model and new reverse master tools expenses were included in the remittance of £4,700.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr Le Marquand

INVOICE: L4599

I am writing about an error which has occurred in the invoicing of master tools for your circulation coins dated 1988.

If you could refer to my letter dated 3 February in which I quoted for these coins, you will see that the total charge for master tools came to £5325, which was made up as follows:-

DENOMINATION	TOTAL CHARGE £
£1 Trinity	2350
£1 St John	1725
50p	625
10p	625
TOTAL:	5325

The figure for Trinity £1 coins includes the re-dating charge of £625.

I understand that you have already arranged payment of this invoice, which included the tooling charge of £4,700. There is therefore an outstanding balance of £625, which will be included on our invoice for the £1 St John coins.

I am sorry for any inconvenience resulting from this error on our part.

Yours sincerely

Dear Mr Le Marquand

CIRCULATION COINS

Thank you for your letter dated 16 August about the cost of your current order.

My comments on the matters you have raised are as follows:

Bronze Coins

As I believe I mentioned by telephone, the increase above the face value of your penny and two pence coins is solely due to current higher prices of copper. After several years of relatively stable prices, the world price of copper rose rapidly from a mid-1987 level of £900 per tonne to a peak of £1700 in December, due to a combination of increased demand and lower production which had reduced stocks to particularly low levels. As I understand it, the problem was that sluggish prices of recent years had led to producers restricting production to their most profitable sources with the result that supply was overtaken by relatively rapid increases in demand.

Fortunately, prices have retreated from highest levels and have now levelled around £1250 per tonne. Metal prices are notoriously difficult to predict, but informed opinion suggests that prices are likely to stay around their present levels for at least the rest of the year, in part due to the lead time necessary to increase production. Possibly, prices may not fall back to previous lows, since the levels of recent years may have been artificially depressed.

What this all boiled down to is that the current situation whereby we are charging in excess of face value for your bronze coins is likely to continue for the foreseeable future.

Alternative Alloys

Over the years, we have continued to research less expensive materials for coins. The most promising 'look-alike' material for bronze is copper plated steel, and we now supply coins in this material to several countries, who have required substitutes for more expensive bronze coins. Basically, copper plated steel coins consist of a mild steel core, which is electro-plated with copper prior to striking. The thickness of the copper plating varies according to the forecast period of circulation, but typically is 20 microns.

The one problem with copper plated steel coins is that the composite material has a slightly lower specific gravity than bronze. This means that copper plated steel coins will be slightly thicker than bronze coins having the same specification. Alternatively, if the more important consideration is for new copper plated steel coins to have the same thickness, their weight will be less. For your one penny and two pence coins, approximate weights would be 3.18 gms and 6.36 gms respectively for coins of the same thickness.

The difficulty that we foresee with your coins is that, since they circulate side by side with United Kingdom coins - both on the Island and elsewhere - problems may be expected to arise, regardless of whether the plated versions were made either the same weight or the same thickness. It would be therefore as well to consider all the implications, prior to your adopting the less expensive material.

For information, copper plated steel coins are likely to cost up to a quarter less than existing bronze coins. If you wish to give the matter further consideration, please let me know and I will provide you with some more detailed information.

Yours sincerely

P J S Green

Dear Mr Green,

Thank you for your letter of the 10th instant advising me of the cost of producing our recent order of coins.

The matter has been discussed with the Treasurer and I am directed to advise you of our concern that it is no longer possible to produce the two penny and one penny coins at face value or less.

Would you kindly comment upon the following questions.

1. Do you see this situation continuing ?
2. Are there any developments within the industry which will alleviate the problem ?

I would welcome your advice based upon your vaste experience.
